SCRIPTURE and SCIENCE not at VARIANCE.

2. WORK among the LOST. 18th Thousand.

With Two Plans, Six Illustrations, and Appendix. 16mo, cloth, 1s. 6d., post-free.

"From my own experience in long-past years, I am quite sure that the way indicated in 'Work in Brighton' is the only true way; and I would entreat the women of England to read the little book, and then judge, each for herself, in what way she can help a cause which, for the sake of home and family, has a claim on every woman. HURST & BLACKETT'S
NEW WORKS.

COMPLETION OF MR. DIXON'S ROYAL WINDSOR.
Now ready, demy 8vo, 39s., completing the Work.

VOLS. III. AND IV. OF ROYAL WINDSOR.
By W. HEPWORTH DIXON.

"The second half of this important work fully realises the promise of its commencement. Indeed, the latter portion is of much greater interest than the former, coming, as it does, so much closer to our own times; consequently the materials are fuller, the facts more certain, and the historical associations of much greater moment. In his researches in Windsor Castle the author had, by special permission, rare opportunities for making himself well acquainted with every nook and corner, every association and legend of the old fortress, its surrounding park and its adjacent forest. Of these opportunities and privileges he has not been slow to avail himself, and the result has been an infusion of local colour into his work which adds to its pictorial value, and at the same time strengthens its historical truth. Of all the royal residences in Great Britain, there is none with such a history, there is none so picturesque, there is none, from a thousand associations, which is so endeared to Englishmen as that of which Mr. Dixon has given us so comprehensive a narrative."—Sunday Times.

Now ready, in 2 vols., 8vo, 39s.

CONVERSATIONS WITH DISTINGUISHED PERSONS
DURING THE SECOND EMPIRE.

FROM 1860 TO 1863.

By the late NASSAU W. SENIOR.

Edited by his Daughter, M. C. M. SIMPSON.

"Mr. Senior's 'Conversations with M. Thiers, M. Guizot, &c., published about a year and a-half ago, were the most interesting volumes of the series which had appeared up to that time, and these new 'Conversations' are hardly, if at all, less welcome and important. A large part of this delightful book is made up of studies by various critics, from diverse points of view, of the character of Louis-Napoleon, and of more or less vivid and accurate explanations of his tortuous policy. The work contains a few extremely interesting reports of conversations with M. Thiers. There are some valuable reminiscences of Lamartine, and among them of a somewhat later day, of Prince Napoleon, Drouyn de Lhuys, Montalembert, Victor Cousin, Renan, and the Chevaliers."—Athenaeum.

"The journals now published are the last which Mr. Senior wrote. Their style and matter display his highest point of perfection in a branch of literature which he may almost be said to have invented. Mr. Simpson has edited the work with judgment and ability. Many readers may not unreasonably prefer the dramatic or literary character of Mr. Senior's 'Conversations' to their historical interest, but it is impossible to insert extracts of such length as to represent the spirit, the finish, and the variety of a book which is throughout entertaining and instructive."—Saturday Review.

DIARY of a TOUR in SWEDEN, NORWAY, and RUSSIA in 1827. By the MARCHESESS OF WESTMINSTER. 8vo, 15s.

"This work is the most perfect and elaborate record of the living and recently deceased members of the Peerage of the Three Kingdoms as it stands at this day. It is a most useful publication. We are happy to bear testimony to the fact that scrupulous accuracy is a distinguishing feature of this book."—Times.

THE NEW NOVELS.

A SYLVAN QUEEN. By the AUTHOR of "RACHEL'S SECRET," &c. 3 vols.

"A Sylvan Queen' is a picturesque and, on the whole, very pleasing story, the principal merit of which consists in its bright little pictures of country life and character."—Athenaeum.

"A novel of a very high order. The language is vigorous, the characters are drawn with life-like fidelity, and the plot is worked up with such artistic skill that the reader's attention is kept alive from the opening to the last scene."—Court Journal.

LORD BEACONSFIELD: his Life, Character, and Works. A Critical Study. By GEORGE BRANDES. Translated by Mrs. GEORGE STURGE. Demy 8vo, 10s. 6d.

FROM THE "TIMES."

"We have no space to examine in detail the manner in which Herr Brandes has executed his task. It was manifestly congenial to him, and he has not a few qualifications for it. His information is copious and singularly accurate so far as we have tested it; and his literary criticisms at least are sound, penetrating, and genial. As a biography, his work is far more valuable, because more concise and impartial, than any which has appeared in England. As a criticism, it is generally instructive, and often suggestive."

"Christy Carew" is a very clever book, displaying in many places passages such as one has at present the right to expect from George Eliot alone. Is the authoress to be her successor? There are not a few now watching her career with great attention who think she can be if she only chooses."—Morning Post.

SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, & CO.'S NEW WORKS.

A THIRD EDITION is nearly ready.

MEMOIRS of MADAME de RÉMUSAT (1802—1868). Translated by Mrs. CASHEL HONY and Mr. JOHN LILLIE. 2 vols., demy 8vo, cloth extra, 32s.

[Vol. I. now ready; Vol. II. nearly ready.]

From the SATURDAY REVIEW, February 21.

"Of the three volumes which are to contain the memoirs of Madame de Rémusat, two have been published, and of these two, one and a-half have been translated into English. The translation is unusually well done being remarkably free from the stiffness and the foreign air which mark most translations. Nor can anyone doubt that these memoirs deserved to be translated, and to be well translated, into English."

"They are entertaining; they bear on a subject of permanent interest—the character and habits of Napoleon. . . . What between the text and the notes, these volumes are eminently readable, and those who have gone as far as what has now been published will take them with eager interest looking for the completion of the task which M. de Rémusat and his very efficient translators have set themselves."

TWO NEW VOLUMES OF POETRY.

8vo, cloth extra, price 6s. each.

SONGS in EXILE, and other Poems.

By H. E. CLARKE.

"Mr. Clarke is a poet sans phrase, and we should not have included him in this omnium gatherum of minor singers had it not been for a certain tone of imitation, chiefly of Walt Whitman and Mr. Swinburne, from which in these 'Songs in Exile' he has not known quite how to disengage himself. But that he is a poet, and not a minor poet, we have but little doubt. Nor do we think that anyone who reads the following poem on 'Age' will have much doubt either. He has some spirited 'rebel songs' and some tuneful agnosticism, of both of which we feel some suspicions as to their sincerity, but none whatever as to their goodness. Altogether, this first book of his is the most interesting of its kind which has been published for some years."—Academy.

GASLIGHT and STARS: a Book of Verse.

By Rev. FREDERICK LANGBRIDGE.

"Contains a great deal of genuinely good work. Mr. Langbridge has attained a wholly exceptional polish and grace of form and expression, while nearly every piece in the volume is inspired with an ardour of passion which, if it be not idealism, is the best possible substitute for it, because it creates in the mind of the reader the impression that the poet is proclaiming that which he feels, and is not writing for writing's sake."—Scotsman.

A TREASURY of ENGLISH SONNETS. Edited from the Original Sources, with Notes and Illustrations. By DAVID M. MAIN.

Of this work, which has been printed for private circulation, and very largely subscribed, the printers have a Limited Number of copies on hand, which they are authorised to sell at the above price, carriage paid.

*A very few copies printed in Quarto, on the best hand-made paper, price Five Guinea each.

"... The best collection of such pieces that was ever made. It is an abundant, profitable, and delightful store of these enchanting harmonies of sound and sense and true feeling, tuneful thought or 'musical wisdom,' as Carlyle says of Goethe's poems, which can often find their way into the heart closed against the finest prose rhetoric. A more judicious selection and arrangement could not have been effected. . . . This is the amount of Mr. Main's chief boon to the general reader, who must now be left to procure the book as we heartily and honestly advise him to do, for an abiding 'treasury' of intellectual profit and delight."—Illustrated London News.
"The notes are very good, and prove with what thoroughness and enthusiasm Mr. Main has studied his subject. How extensive his reading must have been will be evident to the most superficial reader, and students of English literature will discover that in his literary comments the editor is generally as accurate as he is comprehensive."—Pall Mall Gazette.
"This is a very fine collection of English sonnets, and, as far as we know, omits none which would be unquestionably regarded by all good critics as of the first rank in power and beauty. . . . As a test of Mr. Main's discretion and judgment, we have compared carefully his selection from Wordsworth with that recently made by Mr. Arnold, and think it, on the whole, the better of the two. . . . Take it all in all, Mr. Main's selection from Wordsworth's sonnets is more adequate than Mr. Arnold's. And as each selector has extracted about the same number, sixty sonnets, this is no slight praise. . . . For what it aims at, this book is a genuine success."—Spectator.
"The volume is a really valuable and interesting one, which most lovers of poetry will be glad to possess."—Literary World.
"Will be welcomed by all lovers of poetry, and students of English letters. . . . The book is said to be a 'labour of love,' and it bears the marks of it. It will not, we feel certain, be a labour lost."—Daily Review.

A LATIN DICTIONARY, founded on Andrews's Edition of "FREUND'S LATIN DICTIONARY." Revised, Enlarged, and in great part Rewritten by CHARLTON T. LEWIS, Ph.D., and CHARLES SHORT, LL.D., Professor of Latin, Columbia College, New York. 4to, 31s. 6d.

"The improvements are such as to defy quotation both from their length and their intrinsic character. New words are added, and new and most happy quotations are introduced; meanings are more carefully differentiated and arranged. The etymological notes certainly far surpass in accuracy and fullness anything as yet attempted in any dictionary."—Athenaeum.

"The distinguished American scholars under whose care it appears have spared no time or labour to make the book . . . as representative of the present state of Latin scholarship as Liddell and Scott's of Greek."—Guardian.

"Everything that the most advanced student can fairly require will be found in these pages. . . . The work is evidently one of first-rate merit, and it is sure to command, as it deserves, an extensive circulation."—British Quarterly Review.
